

Protecting Your Community

Whenever an accident or a terrorist threat occurs in hazardous chemicals or other substances, the Southtowns Haz-Mat Team is prepared to respond to your community. Our specialized teams, working together, minimize public health risks and negative environmental impacts associated with hazardous chemicals and extremely hazardous substances.

With our specially trained group available in the Southtowns, the Southtowns Haz-Mat Team is prepared to respond to any incident of this nature which occurs on the roads, water, tracks or even in manufacturing areas.

Formed in 1986 to fill a serious shortfall for emergency hazardous materials response and to meet federal regulations the Team continues to enhance their facility; upgrade and purchase new equipment; and sponsor training programs to meet federal, state and local requirements. Beginning in 1998, the Team has received specialized federal training for terrorist activities as part of their continued specialized response capabilities.

Responding to incidents including anthrax threats, propane gas leaks, tractor trailer accidents carrying hazardous chemicals and railroad incidents involving dangerous materials, the Southtowns Haz-Mat Team is eager to continue its commitment to minimizing the adverse effects of such incidents in our contracting communities.

Community commitment to the Southtowns Haz-Mat Team insures specialized protection for its residents in the event of a hazardous materials incident.

Southtowns Haz-Mat Team

Organized in 1986, with the technical and financial assistance of Senator William T. Stachowski, the following municipalities, fire districts and companies have entered into agreements with the Southtowns Hazardous Materials Response Team for technical support and emergency response to incidents involving hazardous materials. Today, we receive fees from our contracting communities, spillers, lawsuit awards, grants and continued support from Senator Stachowski. We protect the following areas:

TOWNS of:

Aurora
